GERMANY BACKS DOWN.

WILL NOT JOIN UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND IN ROUMANIAN MOVEMENT.

Berlin, Sept. 26.—Germany has decided not to associate herself in a formal manner with the American and British protests against Roumanian's treatment of the Jews. The German government adopts this attitude, it is understood, independently of other continental powers. Germany considers that as other paraphrases besides Article 44 to the very precise Berlin treaty of 1878 have not been insisted upon, for instance, Roumanian forts have not been razed to the ground and Russia is allowing Bactou to remain as it was before the treaty, this is not the time to oblige Roumanians to observe any particular provision of the treaty.

NEW RECRUITS.

James Bennett of Evansville and Frank Scanlon of Chicago were today taken into the army at the local recruiting station. This makes a total of five recruits enlisted here since the office opened. There have been twenty-five applicants, but most were too young and could not enlist. The office will be located here permanently if the business keeps good until the winter is over.

IN COUNTY COURT.

Irate Husband Surprises His Wife's Companion.

Administers a Very Severe Beating Which Greatly Disfigures a Saloon Man.

GREW OUT OF DOMESTIC AFFAIR

There was a desperate fight in the Worten addition this morning about 9 o'clock in which J. C. Hinton, a saloon man of Seventh and Tennessee streets, was badly wounded by John McCann, a railroader, who, it is alleged, found the former at his home paying undue attentions to his wife.

Hinton had been in trouble twice over Mrs. McCann but since that time there had been no developments until this morning when Hinton was caught by the irate husband and badly whipped. Hinton, it is alleged, had been known to go to McCann's house as soon as McCann would leave for the Illinois Central shops to work, and his actions became the subject of conversation in that portion of the city. McCann left the shops about 8:30 o'clock this morning and went home to change clothes intending to go to the city on business. When he arrived at his home in the Worten addition, he claims he found Hinton there with his wife. Hinton ran out of the house and McCann gave chase. They had a lively race through the suburb and Hinton finally ran into a negro house and grabbed up a chair with which he struck at McCann, who followed close at his heels. McCann warded off the blow with his right arm and Hinton took to flight again. He was outstripped, however, and McCann then began working on him. He rained blows thick and fast, using a small rock in his fist. "The only thing I could find," he explained. Hinton's head is cut deep in several places and his face is bruised almost beyond recognition where McCann struck him. After punishing Hinton to his satisfaction McCann withdrew and gave himself up to the police. Hinton was brought to the city hall and Dr. Robert Rivers summoned to dress the injuries. McCann was injured on the right hand, but only slightly.

McCann said to a reporter at the city hall that he was sorry he had dealt with Hinton so mildly and intimated that he would have done more had he anything better than a small rock. He says that his wife blames him for thrashing Hinton and sides with the latter. McCann tells a straight story and the officers' sympathy seem to be with him. The woman was arrested several months ago with Hinton for immorality and Hinton was fined, and another arrest subsequently followed but Hinton was then acquitted. He is alleged to have still persisted in his attentions to the McCann woman and the police were looking for something more serious than a mere scrap as a result of the affair.

It is claimed that Mrs. McCann assisted Hinton when he was surprised by her husband and attempted to prevent her husband thrashing him.

After the fight Mrs. McCann, who had been following the two men as rapidly as possible, was found in a field about half a mile away bathing Hinton's head, her dress covered with blood and water.

A warrant was this morning issued against Hinton for a breach of the peace and the case will come up for trial tomorrow.
